

Son Ferrandell

The quadrangular estate consists of two carefully renovated buildings whose history goes back to the year 1889 when the house was bought as a sanctuary by the Austrian Archduke Luís Salvador, but traces of this time still remain today.

Here is the opportunity to enjoy the countryside while reaching the pulse of the big city of Palma in just 20 minutes. Perhaps the yearning for country life is greater now more than ever. The green surroundings embrace a paved courtyard behind the iron gates.

The East Wing enters through the traditional kitchen and its garden. The bright kitchen with details in stone and wood is equipped with modern appliances, several sinks and plenty of workspace on the counters. The kitchen also features a large dining table.

In connection to the kitchen you will find a small lounge with seats to relax away from the Mediterranean sun and a bigger dining room for family style dinners.

In the living room you will find comfortable seating for relaxing in the afternoons. Here you will also find the guest bathroom and an upstairs lounge.

The three bedrooms are all en-suite. Each bringing their own unique charm.

The first being the Jasmin room, a beige and white colour welcomes tranquility and beautiful views.

The Rose room brings warmth in colour and style with a chic Hollywood esque bathroom with doors out to the beautiful balcony.

The third bedroom is the Sunflower room, the newest of the rooms with a grand ceiling and stunning views to the sea and overlooking the inner courtyard.

The farm has tangible greenery with lushly growing hedges, trees and flowers. Entering the property through the kitchen garden directly brings you in to the harmonious greenery in the form of rose bushes, jasmin and herbs to use for cooking. From the living room's double wooden doors with glass sections, you will find a lush garden with fruit trees and rose bushes. Amongst the greenery is a long table for al fresco eating and a comfy sofa group in the shade. From the patio you can reach the balcony that flatters with a view of the mountain peaks and the open landscape.
